

A Reflection on Leadership and Legacy

Since 2003, Peter Grauer has served as President of Inner-City Scholarship Fund's Board of Trustees, helping to guide our organization in opening doors of opportunity for students and their families through a values-based Catholic education. As he prepares to step down from this role at the end of 2026, Peter has generously shared some thoughts and reflections on over two decades of service.

One theme seems to rise above all: gratitude. "I am most grateful for the opportunity to lead an organization that has changed the lives of so many students and their families," he says. "Through the support of Inner-City Scholarship Fund, thousands of students have been able to complete high school, pursue higher education and become responsible citizens in our communities."

For Peter, every student's journey is part of Inner-City's larger story. As he put it, "defining moments happen every day." Those moments have been particularly meaningful when he visits students and sees them in their daily environment. "They are engaged and energized," he says. "Our support acts as a real motivator."

Peter is quick to emphasize that Inner-City's accomplishments belong to an entire community. "I have been very lucky to help lead the board composed of a group of exceptional men and women who deeply believe in our mission and ability to make change happen."

During Peter's tenure, Inner-City Scholarship Fund has grown substantially, both in reach and in financial strength. Among the accomplishments of which he is most proud is the creation of an endowment that has provided a measure of financial independence that will help sustain Inner-City's mission and commitment to students for years to come. He is equally proud of a strategic decision made several years ago to broaden the organization's support for students. "We have enough data from our students to reinforce our mission and have a huge impact on our students and their communities."

As Peter looks toward the next chapter for Inner-City Scholarship Fund, he does so with confidence in the organization's future and its new leadership. Incoming board president John Doyle is "totally committed to our success. In addition to his many accomplishments, he is a terrific individual."

"Defining moments happen every day. Our support acts as a real motivator."

The transition represents another step in the ongoing evolution of Inner-City Scholarship Fund. Perhaps the most significant measure of Peter's legacy is found in the opportunities made possible for students. Behind every scholarship is a community of people deeply invested in their future. For more than two decades, Peter Grauer has helped lead that community with dedicated support from his wife, Laurie, who is equally passionate about Inner-City's mission and impact. We are deeply grateful for Peter's thoughtful leadership and the Grauers' commitment to Inner-City Scholarship Fund. 🙏

A MESSAGE FROM OUR EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Dear Friends,

This edition of our newsletter marks two significant milestones in the life of Inner-City Scholarship Fund. Both the graduation of another outstanding class of scholarship recipients and the beginning of a new chapter in our board leadership remind us of the enduring strength of Inner-City's mission and the impact that dedicated individuals can have on the lives of children and their families.

The accomplishments of our graduates reflect years of hard work and determination. As they move forward, we know they will continue to carry the values of compassion, integrity and commitment to service instilled through their Catholic education. Their achievements are also a testament to the generosity of our donors and supporters whose belief in providing access and opportunity has made their educational journeys possible.

We are also seizing the chance to recognize the extraordinary leadership of our outgoing board president, Peter Grauer, who concludes more than 20 years of dedicated service to Inner-City Scholarship Fund. Peter's vision and stewardship ensured that thousands of deserving students received access to educational opportunities that otherwise would have been beyond their reach. We are grateful that Peter has agreed to remain on our Board, and we look forward to his ongoing presence and commitment to Inner-City.

As we honor Peter's remarkable legacy in the months ahead, Inner-City Scholarship Fund is equally excited to welcome John Doyle as our new president. As a long-serving board member, John's passion for our mission and thoughtful leadership will certainly build on the strong foundation established over the past two decades while continuing to broaden our impact.

Thank you to everyone who makes the work of Inner-City Scholarship Fund possible. Together, let's celebrate our graduates and honor the strong leadership that has gotten us here. The future looks very bright! 🌟

Sincerely,

A New Chapter of Leadership: Meet John Doyle

John Doyle is preparing to take the helm as President of Inner-City Scholarship Fund’s Board of Trustees on January 1, 2027. A longtime champion of Inner-City’s mission, John first joined the Board in 2011, after he and his wife, Katherine, had already been dedicated supporters for nearly a decade.

John currently serves as Co-President of the Board and brings four decades of leadership experience in professional services. He is President and Chief Executive Officer of Marsh, where he previously served as Group President and Chief Operating Officer. Before joining Marsh in 2016, John held several executive level positions at AIG, including CEO of AIG Commercial Insurance and President and CEO of AIG Property and Casualty in the U.S.

Beyond his professional leadership, John has devoted his time to other organizations focused on strengthening New York and expanding opportunity. He serves on the Board of Directors of the Partnership for New York City, the Board of Overseers of the Maurice R. Greenberg School of Risk Management, Insurance and Actuarial Science at St. John’s University, and the Board of the New York Police and Fire Widows’ and Children’s Benefit Fund. He is also a member of the Business Roundtable.

For John, his commitment to Inner-City is rooted in a belief in the transformative power of education and the importance of making that opportunity accessible to students who need it most. “I know firsthand that education can be a great equalizer—it opens doors and levels the playing field. Inner-City Scholarship Fund understands this deeply, which is why I’ve supported their mission for so many years. When we invest in excellent schools and support the students who need it most, we’re empowering entire communities to thrive.” 🏡

Celebrating the Class of 2026

Alison Weiskopf and Jimmy Lee Scholars Class of 2026

Congratulations to the 357 members of Inner-City Scholarship Fund's Class of 2026. Each student represents an individual story of success made possible in part by the generosity of those who believe in the power of opportunity. Because of those supporters, our graduates received a life-changing Catholic education and are ready to take on whatever comes next.

Of the 357 graduates, 42 plan to major in nursing, 30 in psychology, 28 in business, 28 in biology, 20 in engineering, and many more plan to pursue a wide range of other fields.

Ninety-nine seniors have chosen to attend Catholic institutions for college. That is almost 30% of the class and an amazing testament to the lasting impact of Catholic education in elementary and high school.

On Wednesday, April 29, we gathered for a celebration of our students sponsored through endowed funds or our Be a Student's Friend program. The celebration was attended by over 30 graduating students and 20 sponsors. For many graduates, it is the first opportunity to meet the person or family who has opened countless doors for them and that many had been writing to for 12 years. That face-to-face meeting is an unforgettable moment, and one our students tell us they will cherish for years to come.

Best of luck on all future endeavors to the Class of 2026, and thank you to all of the generous supporters who helped them achieve this milestone. 🙌

More Than an Education

Meet Samuel A., a scholarship recipient and member of the Cardinal Hayes High School Class of 2026. During his time at Cardinal Hayes, he excelled as a First Honors Student, a member of the National Honor Society, and a College Board AP Scholar.

While Samuel is incredibly thankful for the excellent education his scholarship provided, he feels especially grateful for the way it has shaped him as a person through his school's emphasis on faith and service. One of the experiences that impacted him most was a pilgrimage to Lourdes, France, where he participated in service projects, including cleaning a hospital. "The big part of experiencing a Catholic education is the emphasis on charity," he explained. He also participated in Scholas Occurrentes, collaborating with students from diverse backgrounds and preparing for a presentation connected to the United Nations.

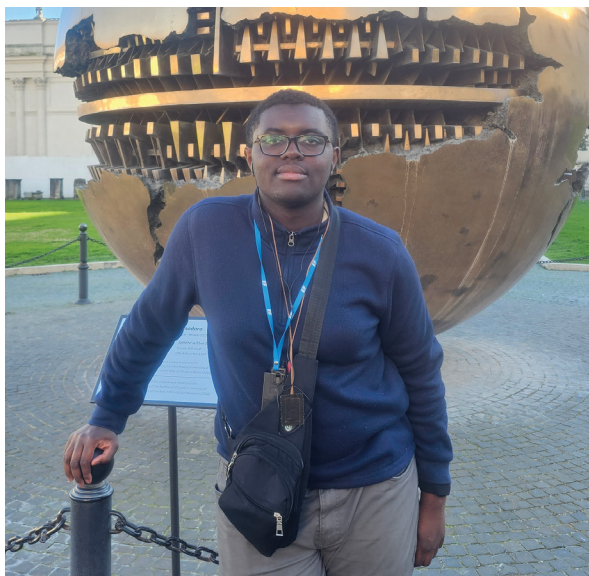

Samuel says he wouldn't be the person he is today without Inner-City Scholarship Fund. "The support makes a major difference in us being able to either afford a Catholic education or not," he said.

Inspired by the generosity of his sponsors, Samuel hopes to one day give back. "I'm hoping once I get my job and everything stabilized, I can help out in the same way my sponsors did," he shared.

This fall, the Bronx native and first-generation college student will attend Drexel University to pursue engineering. Congratulations to Samuel and all of our graduates! 🎓

First Day of High School

49th Annual Inner-City Scholarship Fund FRIENDS Gala

More than 425 guests joined us for the 49th Annual FRIENDS Gala, hosted by our Gala Chairs, the Barbara and Paul Curran Family, and emceed by Inner-City Scholarship Fund Trustee Mo Rocca. The event raised more than $1 million to support students across the Archdiocese of New York.

Our student speaker this year was Dennis L., a member of the Class of 2026 at Xavier High School. Dennis is a first-generation American whose scholarship has supported his Catholic education since first grade. This fall, he will attend Manhattan University to study mechanical engineering, carrying with him the resilience he developed through overcoming open-heart surgery, excelling in the classroom, and earning Most Improved Player on Xavier's varsity bowling team. Reflecting on the values that guide him, Dennis shared, "My scholarship not only provided me and my family with financial assistance but also changed my life. I eventually learned that opportunity is hard to come by, and it is not based on luck. Opportunity is based on faith, belief, and hard work; you have to earn it."

The gala also featured performances by students from Cardinal Hayes High School, Notre Dame School of Manhattan, and Our Lady of Lourdes School, who performed an original song written for Archbishop Hicks.

This year's event came at a particularly poignant time for the Currans with the loss of family matriarch, Barbara Curran just a week earlier. Barbara and her husband, Paul Curran, began what has become a multigenerational commitment to Inner-City and Catholic education. Reflecting on his own connection to Inner-City's mission, Gala Chair Tom Curran said, "Any objective evaluation of Inner-City and its mission and work reveals it to be truly a great institution, perhaps best embodied in its brilliant motto: A Child. A Chance. A Future. This motto perfectly reflects the essence of Inner-City: providing children and their supportive families with a chance to improve their lives and futures through a quality education."

We are deeply grateful to the entire Curran family for their unwavering support and longstanding dedication to Inner-City and our students. 🙏

FRIENDS of Inner-City

The FRIENDS of Inner-City Scholarship Fund enriches the educational experience of students across the Archdiocese of New York through three volunteer programs: the Job Opportunities Program, Learning to Look, and the Junior Board. Dedicated volunteers across all three initiatives continue to inspire, mentor, and create meaningful opportunities for students both inside and outside the classroom.

Inner-City Scholarship Fund's Job Opportunities Program helped 39 high school juniors from nine partner schools take an important step toward their future careers this spring, with the support of 30 dedicated volunteers. Students developed essential skills in interviewing, networking, and workplace etiquette while preparing for internship opportunities. At the conclusion of the program, several students were matched with summer internships at law firms, media organizations, and Rye Nature Center, a summer camp for elementary students supported by Inner-City. New this year, six students also received scholarships to attend a weeklong pre-college program at Stevens Institute of Technology, where they explored fields such as engineering, biology, business, cybersecurity, and computer programming.

Job Opportunities Program

The Learning to Look program inspires students to discover art through curiosity and conversation. This year, 363 students from four schools explored a range of genres tailored to their grade level, from Exploring Art in second grade and American Art in third grade to Old Masters in fourth grade and Impressionists in fifth grade. Students then put their knowledge into practice during unforgettable visits to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The Junior Board hosted several memorable events this year, serving over 150 students with the help of 30 dedicated volunteers. At the Valentine's Day celebration and Easter Party, students enjoyed festive crafts. As part of the Educational Adventure Program on April 18, students learned about reptiles, explored their habitats, and even had the chance to hold some of the animals. These events brought hands-on learning and fun to students and volunteers alike.

If you would like to learn how you can volunteer with any of these groups or help provide an internship for one of our students next summer, please email info@innercitynyc.org. 🐍

The Power of Catholic Education

Meet Frank Barry, a Bloomberg Opinion Editor, author, chief speechwriter for New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg, and a supporter of Inner-City Scholarship Fund since 2012. Frank has seen firsthand the power of Catholic education.

"I grew up going to public schools, and I'm a great believer in them," Frank shared. "But I've also seen the power of Catholic schools to bring out the best in students and change the trajectory of their lives."

After college, Frank spent two years teaching at a Catholic school where most students received financial aid. The experience shaped his understanding of the impact Catholic schools can have on students and communities.

Inspired by the generosity of many colleagues at Bloomberg LP, namely Michael Bloomberg and Peter Grauer, Frank and his wife, Laurel, decided to sponsor a student at Cardinal Hayes High School. Cardinal Hayes has a special meaning to his family, as his father taught there in the 1960s while serving as an Irish Christian Brother. Through that connection, they were paired with a student named Kenny.

"There are so many deserving students, and so many good schools that are struggling to survive," Frank said. "Sponsoring a student was a way to help both."

Over the next several years, Frank followed Kenny's progress through his letters, report cards, and comments from his teachers. During a school visit to Cardinal Hayes, Kenny proudly showed Frank around the school and introduced him to his teachers.

"That was my first time at Hayes, and it was fun to imagine my father roaming the halls and standing in front of classrooms. The staff also kindly showed me the top floor where the brothers lived in community together, and they even pulled out some old yearbooks from the '60s. We don't have many photos of my dad from his time as a brother, so I could hardly believe there was a shot of him marching in the St. Patrick's Day parade past the Cathedral."

Kenny also shared videos from his role in the school musical. This year, Frank was able to see Kenny perform at Inner-City's annual FRIENDS Gala, a fitting celebration of the confidence and talent they had watched develop throughout his time at Hayes.

"Any child who finds beauty and joy in music deserves to have it nurtured at school," Frank said.

At this year's graduation celebration, Laurel and Frank were excited to hear about Kenny's plans for the future, which included a summer job at a restaurant and then heading to LaGuardia Community College. He is majoring in Adolescent Education to pursue a career as a math or music teacher.

For Frank, whose mother, Kate, also spent many years teaching in Catholic schools, sponsoring Kenny was a reminder of why Catholic education remains so important.

"Catholic schools have been serving low-income and immigrant communities for more than 200 years. While the business model has changed, the mission has not, and Inner-City is playing a critical role in helping to fulfill it. And the need is as great as ever." 🙏

INNER-CITY SCHOLARSHIP FUND

LEND YOUR VOICE TO SUPPORT ALL NEW YORK STUDENTS

Families seeking educational opportunities for their children will greatly benefit if Governor Kathy Hochul opts in to the Federal Scholarship Tax Credit program. The program allows individual donors to make contributions to qualified scholarship granting organizations (SGOs). In return, they receive a dollar-for-dollar federal tax credit. Qualified SGOs then award scholarships to eligible K-12 students for qualified educational expenses, including tutoring, tuition, special needs services, transportation, technology, enrichment and more.
